

Part-Time Position in Criminology (EXTERNAL)

St. Thomas University invites applications for an instructor to teach the following course in Elsipogtog First Nation:

Semester 1: (September to December 2024)

CRIM 1013Y Introduction to Criminology, FRIDAYS 11:00 AM – 1:50 PM

This course is designed to introduce the student to the discipline of criminology: its origins, the nature of disciplinary debates, and a sampling of theoretical and methodological issues. It involves an examination of crime patterns, causes of criminal behaviour and crime prevention strategies. This course also introduces the student to core topics covered in electives in the second year: courts, young offenders, police, corrections, and victimology. This introductory course is a prerequisite for all upper-level courses.

St. Thomas University is an undergraduate, liberal arts institution with a full-time enrolment of 1,600. Its students graduate with Bachelor of Arts, Applied Arts, Education, and Social Work degrees. The faculty members are distinguished teachers, researchers and scholars, and the university holds two Canada Research Chairs.

A PhD, or imminent completion is preferred; a Master's degree or equivalent professional experience is required. Each applicant is to submit a curriculum vitae, along with pertinent documentation (ex. teaching portfolio etc.) and arrange to have three letters of reference sent directly to Dr. Dawne Clarke, Chair, Criminology, St. Thomas University, Fredericton, NB E3B 5G3. Electronic applications may be sent to dclarke@stu.ca.

Closing date: July 12, 2024, or when the position is filled. Applicants are responsible for ensuring that their completed applications are received by this date.
